THE ANTI-HAYES MOVEMENT. Ca-Gevernor Chamberiais Will Orate To-Day Against the Administration—The Gathering Soure-Heads at Henry C. Bowen's Country Seat in Connection, by Telegraph to THE REPUBLICAN, WOODSTOCK, CONN., July 3.

The celebration of the first Fourth of the second century of the Republic at Roseland Park, promises to be an event of national interest, not only from the fact that some of our most distinguished statesmen are to speak, but also from the fact that it is expected that the address of ex-Governor Chamberlain will con-sist of an assault upon the present Administhis evening: The Hon. James G. Blaine, ex-Governor Chamberlain, of South Carolina, the Rev. Dr. Cuyler, of Brookly; Rev. James M. Buckly, and others.

A supper was given at Mr. Bowen's realdence to-night, at which a number of prominent persons were present.

During the evening Governor Chamberlain was loudly called for, and spoke as follows:
Fillow-Chizesse. You will hardly expect me to do more to-night than to return to you my thanks for the honor you do me in calling upon me to night. I am here to speak to you to-morrow, and I have but a word of thanks. I rejote to be here again in New England, in Connecticut, and let me add I rejoice expectably to be here in this good and true old county of Windham. I trust that to-morrow we shall meet the good people of that county and take counsel together upon these subjects which are always uppermost always in order, as the anniversary of our national independence recurs, but I must not anticipate to morrow. I thank you again for the bonor you have done me, and I beg to remind you that there are others here to-night whose voices you will be glad to hear, with to-night whose voices you will be glad to hear, with the wind and a shortly affect. and I beg to remind you that there are others here to night whose voices you will be glad to hear, with whose carreer as public men you are more familiar than you, can possibly be with me. I shark you, fellow-citizens, and hid 700 good night.

After Governor Chamberlain had concluded, Mr. Blaine was called for as the next President of the United States. He responded as follows:

You can always teil a man who has been engaged in Southern politics by his efforts to throw the responsibility on somebady else, and that is what Governor Chamserfain has tried to do this evening in calling on me for a speech. He was booked for it and promised to make it before we left for New York, but he attempted to dodge, in the presence of this assemblage, and put me in as his ambetitute. I am not willing to stand in that relation. I came here with a little bit of postscript, to be added to his oration to-morrow, and there is not force enough in Windham county to extract it from me to-night. I am very gled to see you and very sorry that Gov. Chamberlain has refused to address yen.
